EDWARD JOYCE, Surgeon,
HIS GREAT AMERICAN BALSAM.

Extracted from the beſt Medicinal Herbs, &c. for the Cure of the following Diſorders, incident to human Nature; proved from Experience in NEW-YORK, LONG-ISLAND, and elſewhere, to equal, and rather exceed any Balſam, Eſſence, or Elixir, &c. exported from Europe here, for the ſeveral Diſorders hereafter mentioned.

FOR common green or freſh Wounds, it heals at once or twice dreſſing, by cloſing the Lips of the Wound, and laying on the Wound a Pledgit of Lint dipt in the Balſam. In Nervous Wounds, where the Blood Veſſels are divided, &c. it ſtops the Blood immediately, and heals by a few Applications. For the Cure of the moſt inveterate Ulcers, only waſh them and keep them clean, uſing firſt if there be any proud Fleſh, a common Cauſtick, to take the Excreſſence away, then apply the Balſam on Lint. If the Ulcers ſhould happen to be fiſtulous, inject by a Syringe, and after cloſe the Orifice with a Pledgit dipt in the Balſam, and ſo repeat. There are Witneſſes undeniable of the Balſam alone curing a Fiſtula in Ano, now preſent in New-York:—The Author of this Balſam, (under God) will engage to cure a Fiſtula in Ano, even if the Rectum is perforated, without Inciſion, except as much by a Lancet to make Way for Injection, and no more. For the Cure of Colds, attended with violent Coughing, Pains in the Breaſt, Inflamation in the Throat and Glands, Difficulty of Breathing, being obſtructed by tough viſcid Phleghm; by taking a Tea Spoonful of the Balſam, mixed with Sugar or Honey, it quickly cures, taken twice a Day, Morning faſting, and at Night going to bed. It is exceeding good in all Manner of Swellings; for violent Falls or inward Bruiſes, nothing is better, for it ſcatters coagulated Blood, and ſtops Blood that might be occaſioned by the inward Parts being hurt, or a Rexis of Veſſels inwardly. In the Cure of Pleureſy, after Bleeding, (where it is required) give a Tea-Spoonful three Times a Day, in Sugar, and between Times now and then Twenty or Thirty Drops of Spirituous Nitre Dulcis, that is the ſweet Spirits of Nitre.—It cures Conſumptions in them that are not too far gone, except they paſs the Age of Fifty, by taking of it inwardly three Times a Day, a Tea-Spoonful mixt with Sugar or Honey, each Doſe. It ſtrengthens the Nerves, and is good in all nervous Diſorders, by taking of it inwardly, and anointing the Parts outwardly, keeping warm.——☞ The above BALSAM to be SOLD by the Printer hereof.

ON Friday the 20th ult. a Court of Admiralty held by Commiſſion began here, for the Trial of Patrick Butler, Mate, Thomas Haywood, Pilot (put on board by Capt. Next Day the Buſineſs of the Court previous to the Trial was finiſhed, and they adjourned till the Thurſday following, that the Priſoners might be prepared for their Defence. They were accuſed of Piracy, Felony, and Robbery. On Thurſday the Trial began, and was continued till near 12 o'Clock on Friday Night, when the Honourable the Preſident read the following to the Priſoners, and they were afterwards diſmiſſed from the Bar; "THE Witneſſes being examined on both Sides, and the Council on each "Side being heard, and the Priſoners being fully and fairly heard "what they could ſay for themſelves, the Court was cleared, "and all Perſons withdrew thereſrom, except the Members of "the Court and the Regiſter: And afterwards the Court fully "deliberated on the Articles exhibited againſt the Priſoners, and "the Evidence given on both Sides, and thereupon unanimouſly "reſolved, That, although the ſeveral Priſoners, and in parti-"cular Patrick Butler, had committed many Acts on board the "Snow Paſchal Paoli highly illegal and injurious to the Captain, "and of dangerous Conſequence to Trade and Navigation, yet "the Evidence given did not Amount to a full Proof of the "Crimes, or either of the Crimes, charged againſt them: It "was therefore conſidered, and unanimouſly agreed, That the "ſaid Patrick Butler, Thomas Haywood, Richard Whittey, and "Andrew Barrott, are not, nor is either of them, guilty of the "Crimes laid to their Charge, or either of them."

JAMIESON & SIMONS

TO BE SOLD, OR EXCHANGED FOR NEGROES,

A Tract of TIDE SWAMP, on the island of Argyle, seven miles above the town of Savannah, containing, as imagined, near seven hundred acres; near two hundred and fifty cleared and compleatly banked in, with buildings of every kind suitable for a plantation, equal at least to any in the province; a machine that beats six large barrels of rice per day, may be bought with the place, if agreeable to the purchaser, with near twenty head of milch cattle. The situation of this plantation admits of receiving the tide from two rivers at once, so that there is no doubt of watering your field every fortnight if required. The value of this settlement is well known to numbers, and needs no other recommendation, than referring those who incline to buy, to view it. No inducement would have been sufficient for the owner's parting with it, but its being on an island, will not admit of his turning his stock to that advantage which he can do on other lands that he owns elsewhere.

WILLIAM WILLIAMSON.

N. B. If the purchaser finds it inconvenient to pay the money, he may have a long credit, paying the interest annually, and giving proper security.

This is to forewarn all persons whatsoever, from receiving the said note of hand in payment or discount, or otherwise, as I am determined not to pay the same, having not received any consideration for the said note of hand, which must be deemed by all disinterested persons fraudulent.

TAKEN up about one mile from my plantation, in St. Matthew's parish, Berkley county, two negro fellows, of the Guinea country, about five feet ten inches high, calls themselves Pompey and Sambow, speaks but very little English, says that their master's name is James Butler, that he lives the one side of a river, and his old master the other side; by what I can understand by a Guinea fellow of mine, they have been run away since last spring was a year; they are entirely naked, and by lying in the cold, their feet and legs have swelled very much, so that they are not able to be sent to the work-house, therefore have taken this method to have them advertised in the three papers of this province; and if the owner of the negroes find any difficulty in writing to me, direct his letter to Mr. James Courtenne, jeweller, in Charles-Town. SATURDAY, JANUARY 5, 1771.

His MAJESTY's most gracious SPEECH to both HOUSES of PARLIAMENT, on TUESDAY the Thirteenth Day of NOVEMBER, 1770.

My Lords and Gentlemen,

WHEN I last met you in Parliament, I renewed to you the assurances which I had before given you, That it was my fixed purpose to preserve the general tranquility; maintaining, at the same time, the honour of my crown, together with the just rights and interests of my people; and it was with much satisfaction that I indulged the hope of being still able to continue to my subjects the enjoyment of peace with honour and security. Since that time, those very considerations which I then promised you that I would never sacrifice, even to the desire of peace, has laid me under the indispensible necessity of preparing for a different situation.

By the act of the Governor of Buenos-Ayres, in seizing by force one of my possessions, the honour of my crown, and the security of my people's rights, were become deeply affected. Under these circumstances, I did not fail to make an immediate demand from the court of Spain of such satisfaction as I had a right to expect for the injury I had received. I directed also the necessary preparations to be made, without loss of time, for enabling me to do myself justice, in case my requisition to the court of Spain should fail of procuring it for me. And these preparations, you may be assured, I shall not think it expedient to discontinue, until I shall have received a proper reparation for the injury, as well as satisfactory proof that the other powers are equally sincere with myself, in the resolution to preserve the general tranquility of Europe. In the mean time, I have called you together thus early, in order that I may be able to receive from you such advice and assistance, as in the farther progress of this very important business, may happen to become requisite.

With respect to the state of my colonies in North-America, although I have the satisfaction to acquaint you, that the people in most of them, have begun to depart from those combinations which were calculated to depress the commerce of this kingdom; yet in some parts of the colony of the Massachusetts-Bay, very unwarrantable practices are still carried on, and my good subjects oppressed by the same lawless violence, which has too long prevailed in that province.

I hope and trust that the precautions which have already been used for securing this country, against the visitation of that fatal calamity, which has of late appeared in some of the distant parts of Europe, will, with the blessing of God, prove successful. But if, from any alteration of circumstances, it should at any time be found, that farther provision will be wanted, I cannot doubt of your ready concurrence for so salutary a purpose.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons,

I will order the proper estimates, for the service of the ensuing year, to be laid before you. They must unavoidably, in our present situation, exceed the usual amount. Every unnecessary expence, my concern for the ease of my good subjects, will ever make me careful to avoid. But I should neither consult their interest nor their inclination, if I were to decline any expence which the public security, or the maintenance of the national honour, does at any time require.

My Lords and Gentlemen,

I am sensible how little I need say to you, at this time, to prevail upon you to unite in whatever may best promote the true interest of your country. In all your deliberations, upon points of a domestic nature, let the extension of our commerce, the improvement of the revenue, and the maintenance of order and good government, be always in view. With respect to foreign measures, there will, I am persuaded, be no other contest among you, than who shall appear most forward in the support of the common cause, in upholding the reputation and promoting the prosperity of the kingdom. For the attainment of these ends, you shall ever find me ready to exert myself to the utmost. I have no interest, I can have none, distinct from that of my people.

LONDON, NOVEMBER 5.

LAST Saturday's Gazette contains his Majesty's order in council, of November 1, that the quarantine at present subsisting upon all ships and vessels coming from Dantzick, or any other port or place in royal or ducal Prussia, Pomerania, Samogitia, Courland, and Livonia, be extended to all ships, vessels, persons, goods, and merchandizes coming from Hamburgh and Bremen.

Likewise his Majesty's order in council, the better to prevent the infection now raging at Constantinople and other parts of the Levant, and in some parts of Poland, from being brought into this kingdom, that all ships and vessels whatsoever, having rags or cotton wool on board, that are already arrived, or shall hereafter arrive, in any of the ports of this kingdom, or of the isles of Jersey, Guernsey, Alderney, Sark or Man, do make their quarantine for 40 days.

Friday the marquis of Rockingham attended the levee at St. James's, for the first time since last winter, and had a conference with his majesty; his lordship was accompanied by admiral Sir Charles Saunders.

It is said that a body of gentlemen, not fewer than sixty in number, at a meeting held in the city on Friday evening, came to the unanimous resolution of not paying any land tax this year.

We are informed, that along with governor Hutchinson's commission, which was lately sent over to Boston, appointing him to the command of that province; the King's pardon of captain Preston, and the soldiers now in custody there, was also dispatched to him, in order to be pleaded in abatement of the sentence of the court, in case they shall be convicted.

An eminent British house of trade at Lisbon writes thus, to one of their correspondents here, of the 13th current. "Our complaints become louder and louder, as every day seems to produce more oppressive measures than the preceding against his Majesty's subjects here. We hope they will at last merit the attention of a British ministry, otherwise we shall be under a necessity of abandoning this country, which is really become intolerable."

On Thursday last captain D---F---, late of a ship belonging to Virginia, was apprehended by one of his Majesty's messengers, and lodged in Wood-street compter, on a charge against him for the wilful murder of two sailors and a boy on board the said ship on the high-seas, within the jurisdiction of the court of admiralty. He was on Saturday examined before the right honourable the Lord Mayor, when the facts appearing very clear, on the depositions of two seamen, who were on board the said vessel, he was committed to the above prison, in order to take his trial for the offence at the next session of admiralty, which will be held some time next month.

A few evenings ago, a young lady of family, but lately come of age, and to the possession of 4000l. per annum, attempted to hang herself; said to be occasioned by the perfidy of a lover.

NOVEMBER 6. The visits which have lately passed between two great ladies, are deemed by the political world to be more than visits of ceremony. At present the most perfect harmony reigns between them, owing, it is said, to a spirited letter wrote by the P. A. to a foreign prince, on the cool treatment his amiable consort has received from him.

At the meeting of the freeholders at York, on the 25th of September last, Sir George Armitage said "What is to be expected by a repitition of our grievances in another application to the throne, while that pernicious influence prevails, is evident, I doubt not, to every one present. Shall we again kneel at that altar, where our most ardent prayers have been ineffectual? For my part, I shall not vote for a remonstrance."

Some further particulars relative to the taking of Bender, received by letters yesterday, are as follow: The town upon a signal given was attacked in three different places; the garrison defended themselves valiantly, and disputed every inch of ground with great perseverance; when they were beaten from the trenches, they fought from street to street in the town, and withstood the Russians for five hours after they took the citadel. The garrison consisted at the beginning of the siege of near 30,000 men, but at the time of assault were reduced to near half that number; 400 cannon were found in the town, beside an immense booty; baron Stein, who resided in London, about five years ago, and colonel Maller, were both killed in the attack.

It is said that a certain great personage has declared, "He would reduce his land forces as soon as it could be done without prejudice to the common cause, and consistent with the interest of his kingdom."

A Scotchman the other day being asked whether he did not think it odd that the patriotic alderman should discharge the men who were impressed, answered, "By the Lord, Mon, you're not in the secret; the lads have got a pension from France."

Last Saturday the fine equestrian statue of his royal highness the duke of Cumberland, placed in the centre of Cavendish-square, was opened for the first time, for the inspection of the public; the horse is reckoned to be the best executed of any in Europe, excepting that at Charing Cross, on which is placed the statue of king Charles I. There is a clear view of the duke's figure from Conduit-street, up George-street, cross Hanover-square, Oxford road, &c. The reason of the statue being opened yesterday was in honour of the birth day of king William III. who was born November 4, 1650.

The following is the inscription under the said statue:---"William duke of Cumberland, born April 15, 1721, died 31st October 1766. This equestrian statue was erected by lieutenant general William Strode, in gratitude for his private kindness, in honour to his public virtues, November the 5th, Anno Domini 1770.

It is reported that advices of a very interesting nature, relative to the colonies, have lately been transmitted from North America.

An express arrived yesterday with dispatches from Sir John Dick, the British consul at Leghorn.

It is certain, that both the Spaniards and Portuguese are exporting stores of all kinds to their settlements in Africa and America in vast quantities.

Large bets are depending, that there is not an English ship freighted from any part of Portugal after Lady Day next.

Saturday evening a council was held at the secretary of state's office in Cleveland-Row, at which all the great officers of state attended.

Yesterday their royal highnesses the dukes of Gloucester and Cumberland paid a visit to her royal highness the princess dowager of Wales at Carlton-House, where they stayed a considerable time.

The report of a great L---y interfering no more with public affairs is entirely groundless, as a c-----t c-----l was held at C----n H----e on Friday evening.

It is said that the Lord Mayor elect is determined to adopt the same measures in the execution of his office, as the late Mr. Beckford did.

It is said the Lord Mayor elect has purchased the late Mr. Beckford's coach horses, harness, and hammer cloth, in order to maintain the state of the city with becoming splendor.

A certain patriotic alderman has given positive orders to the several constables of his ward on no account to assist enforcing press warrants.

There has not for 50 years past been so great a scarcity of silver as at this time, owing to its present exorbitant price, which is kept up by a certain opulent society, to the great prejudice of many industrious families.

NOVEMBER 7. It is said that a certain great lady, L---d H------d, and L---d N----h, are for peace. A great personage was some time ago inclined to resent the insult of taking Falkland's-Islands, but since the return of a great lady he is not so determined. L---d R------d, who knows the secret disposition of the court of Spain, is for war.

We are told that, a noble statesman has complained to a great personage of the abuses caused by the unlimited protections granted to foreign ministers at this court. It is hoped that a restriction will be imposed on this nuisance, as it has so long been injurious to private property. There are at this time, at the west end of the town, several men of profligate characters, gamblers, and public cheats, who, under the wing of foreign ambassadors and the residents, claim that unjust privilege, and set their honest creditors at defiance. If the same public spirit which restrained the encroachments of our own nobility, &c. in the last sessions, could contract the rights of privileges of foreigners in that particular, it would be a real public utility.

It is reported, that an association of freeholders is formed near Newcastle, who are resolved not to pay the land-tax.

NOVEMBER 8. Yesterday a second remonstrance from some of the inhabitants of the city and liberty of Westminster, for the redress of grievances, was presented to his Majesty at St. James's by Sir Robert Bernard, one of the members for that city; which was received, but no answer returned.

The ministry, we find, expect to receive intelligence very soon of the re-taking of Falkland's-Islands, it being now avowed, that several ships were dispatched for that purpose early after the receipt of the intelligence of the Spaniards taking those Isles. Some of these ships are to remain at Port Egmont, and the rest, after they have compleated their orders in those parts, are to return to one of our northern possessions in the Atlantic.

Surveyors have been employed the last month in making an accurate survey of the Thames, with the Sounds from a little above Maidenhead-bridge to Mortlake, by the order of the city of London, in order to have an estimate of the expences for making the river navigable.

A very respectable clergyman at the west end of the town, offered, in a large company, to wager with any one then present, that there was not a bishop in England could repeat the church catechism, excepting the bishop of Osnaburg.

The following promotions are talked of as speedily to take place.

Sir Fletcher Norton, knt. lord high chancellor of Great-Britain, and also to be created a peer.

Jeremiah Dyson, Esq; to be speaker of the house of commons, in the room of Sir Fletcher Norton.

Thomas Bradshaw, Esq; to be one of the lords of the treasury in the room of Mr. Dyson.

It is now rumoured, that there will be another prorogation of a great assembly; in consequence of which, some very respectable members just arrived in town, are preparing to return without delay into the country.

It is now generally credited that a reconciliation will soon take place, as the R----------m party has undertaken to perform the same.

It is confidently said, that two certain dukes have, on a pique, entirely deserted the ministerial junto, and will in course of next session, appear on the minority side.

We hear, notwithstanding any reports to the contrary, that Lord Bute will not visit this kingdom before May next.

Two ships of war, which were fitted out for the Mediterranean, have received fresh orders to sail immediately for the South Sea.

They write from Gibraltar, that all the British ships in the Mediterranean are now collected into one fleet, which lies near the Straits, commanded by admiral Proby.

The Spanish and Portuguese ambassadors have been lately observed to be continually in each others company.

They write from the Hague, that six Dutch vessels, from 350 to 450 tons each, have lately been taken up there as transports by a neighbouring court, for exporting troops and stores to the coast of Africa.

We are told it has baffled the efforts of all their friends to fill up the breach between Lord M. and Sir F. N.

The following anecdote is sent us as a fact. When his Royal Highness the D--- of C--------- was at Portsmouth dock, viewing the ruins caused by the late dreadful fire there, an old fellow, a labourer in the yard, who had been a sailor, carelessly sung the following verse of a well known song, at the same time eyeing the D. askance, and with a tar-like archness:

"As to you, sir, do your duty,---
[Oh! was I but young again!]
I'd not linger after beauty,
But go play my part with Spain."

To-morrow, or Saturday, his Excellency the Earl of Harcourt will set out on his embassy to the court of Versailles.

This day a court of aldermen met at Guildhall, and swore in Brass Crosby, Esq; the Lord Mayor elect. After the business of the court was over, Mr. Trecothick, the late Lord Mayor, addressed himself to the hall to explain the motives of his conduct during his mayoralty: He observed, that many ill-natured reflections had been thrown out against him for backing press-warrants in the city, in which he remarked, that he was justified in this act by all former Lord Mayors upon every emergent occasion; that at a time when the whole nation was alarmed with the great preparations making for war, he should have thought himself very unexcusable, as chief magistrate of the city of London, if he had thrown any obstruction in the way which might retard the speedily manning of the fleet; that though he had his doubts with respect to the legality of press warrants, yet, as an individual, though in so high a station, he thought it too weighty a matter for him singly to determine upon, and the more particularly as the parliament was so near upon meeting, under whose consideration only such business could with propriety come. Mr. Trecothick said farther, that he despised the low and illiberal means that had been made use of to prejudice him, in the minds of the public, and as he had in every respect executed the business of chief magistrate to the best of his judgment and abilities, as became a faithful citizen and guardian, his conscience was perfectly easy, and he did not doubt but he should meet with the approbation of all his impartial fellow citizens.

This speech was received with loud huzzas by the meanest among the hearers, even by such as declared themselves much incensed against the mode of impressing.

The Duke of Gloucester, in his late tour to the continent, passed through Flanders, Germany, and Moravia, and travelled in the course of it upwards of ten thousand miles.

A Great Personage lately censured his brother very severely for his irregular course of life; and particularly on account of his unbridled passion for intrigue. You see, says he, what a sum I am to pay for you; you are sensible of the disgrace you bring on your family, and how unworthy it is not to follow our better example. The young buck, with his usual levity, turned round upon his heel, whistled, (for he is fond of music) and then left the room, humming to himself, My Mother did so before me.

NOVEMBER 9. Mr. Potter, who was sent a second time with dispatches to the court of Spain, we are informed is not expected till after the meeting of the parliament.

A Correspondent has sent the following Anecdote from Bath: Lord Clare in a large company "declared himself in the strongest terms against the modern patriots, said that they were men of no principle or conscience, that they only thought of themselves, that they had stunned the nation for six years with General Warrants, but now not a man of them took the least notice about Press Warrants, which were certainly as illegal, and much more cruel; that his constituents at Bristol never suffered any to come there, but the London Patriots were dumb on the occasion, because they were not likely to suffer themselves by press-warrants, but might, and ought, by general warrants." A few hours after this eloquent harangue, the post came in, and brought an account that Alderman Wilkes having first discharged an impressed man, had declared impressing illegal. Lord Clare has since scarcely appeared in public, and we hear he is busy in writing a letter of thanks to Mr. Alderman Wilkes for his conduct on that important occasion.

We can inform the public, that there is an association of more than twenty gentlemen, respectable for their property and interest, formed at a tavern near the exchange, who have entered into a solemn resolution not to pay one penny of land-tax, till the present illegal grievances are removed.

By desire of the new Lord Mayor, the officers belonging to the goldsmith's company had their gowns trimmed with blue, which in former years were trimmed with white; they also wore blue cockades, and made a very good appearance.

A letter, signed by a great number of aldermen and common-councilmen, was on thursday sent to Barlow Trecothick, esq; expressing their entire approbation of, and returning their unfeigned thanks for, the integrity of his conduct during the time of his mayoralty.

Mr. Recorder did not think proper to attend either on thursday or yesterday, though summoned for that purpose; and Thomas Nugent, esq; common-serjeant, was both days obliged to do the business in his absence.

It is rumoured that several commoners will shortly be called up to the House of Peers.

This morning Mr. Serjeant Glynn moved in the court of common-pleas for a rule to ſhew cauſe why the verdict againſt Mr. Horne ſhould not be ſet aſide; when, after a hearing, the court granted the rule. It remains now for the court to conſider, whether the words in the two accounts in the proſecution are actionable, as on that depends the force of the verdict.

We hear that Mr. Wilkes has publicly avowed being the author of the intended inſtructions for the electors of Weſtminſter, wherein was ſignified the impeachment of lord North.

The Spaniſh ambaſſador received an expreſs yeſterday from the Prince de Maſſarano at London, and immediately went to the Duke de Choiſeul, with whom he had a long conference, at the iſſue of which his excellency diſpatched a courier for Madrid. This makes us think that the differences between the courts of London and Madrid are not yet terminated. However, it is certain that our miniſtry, in conformity to the King's intentions, are uſing all poſſible means by way of negotiation, to prevent a war.

Toulon, October 6. The preliminaries of peace between the King and the regency of Tunis are ſigned. They conſiſt of eight articles, wherein the Bey acknowledges the union of Corſica to France, and engages to deliver up, before the ſignature of the formal treaty, all the ſubjects of that iſland that were taken under French colours, and to reſtore their veſſels and effects, or pay an equivalent; alſo to renew the French right to the fiſhery on their coaſt, and to pay the company the damages ſuſtained in driving them from the ſaid fiſhery.

Private, but authentic letters from Liſbon mention, that the Portugueſe miniſter has publicly declared, that he will not give any ſatisfaction to the Engliſh, with reſpect to the violent proceedings againſt Mr. Connel, a merchant of that nation. In fact, it is very evident that the court of Liſbon means to ſupport the family compact, and is daily making advances to a political league with the courts of Madrid and Verſailles: They go even ſo far in public companies of merchants at Liſbon, as to declare, that they value not the continuance of their commercial connections with England; but propoſe to indemnify themſelves in caſe of any coolneſs or rupture with the Engliſh, by a new treaty of commerce with France.

Genoa, October 15. The appearance of an Engliſh ſquadron in the Mediterranean, has cauſed our governors, according to cuſtom, to place artillery on our ramparts. The preparations are as great on the ſide of Spain, as on that of England. The Spaniards have actually embarked 2000 ſoldiers at Cadiz for America.

The laſt letters from Madrid ſay, that ſeveral members of the Spaniſh miniſtry are ſtrongly inclined for declaring war againſt England, but that the contrary party, which is at preſent the moſt numerous, and his Catholic Majeſty, were entirely for pacific meaſures.

The veſſel which arrived lately from Buenos Ayres, at Cadiz, with diſpatches for the Spaniſh court, and from which the commander would not ſuffer one perſon to go on ſhore, till they had received orders from the King, has on board, as is reported, ſome Engliſhmen brought from Falkland's-iſlands.
